WeRateDogs Analysis Findings
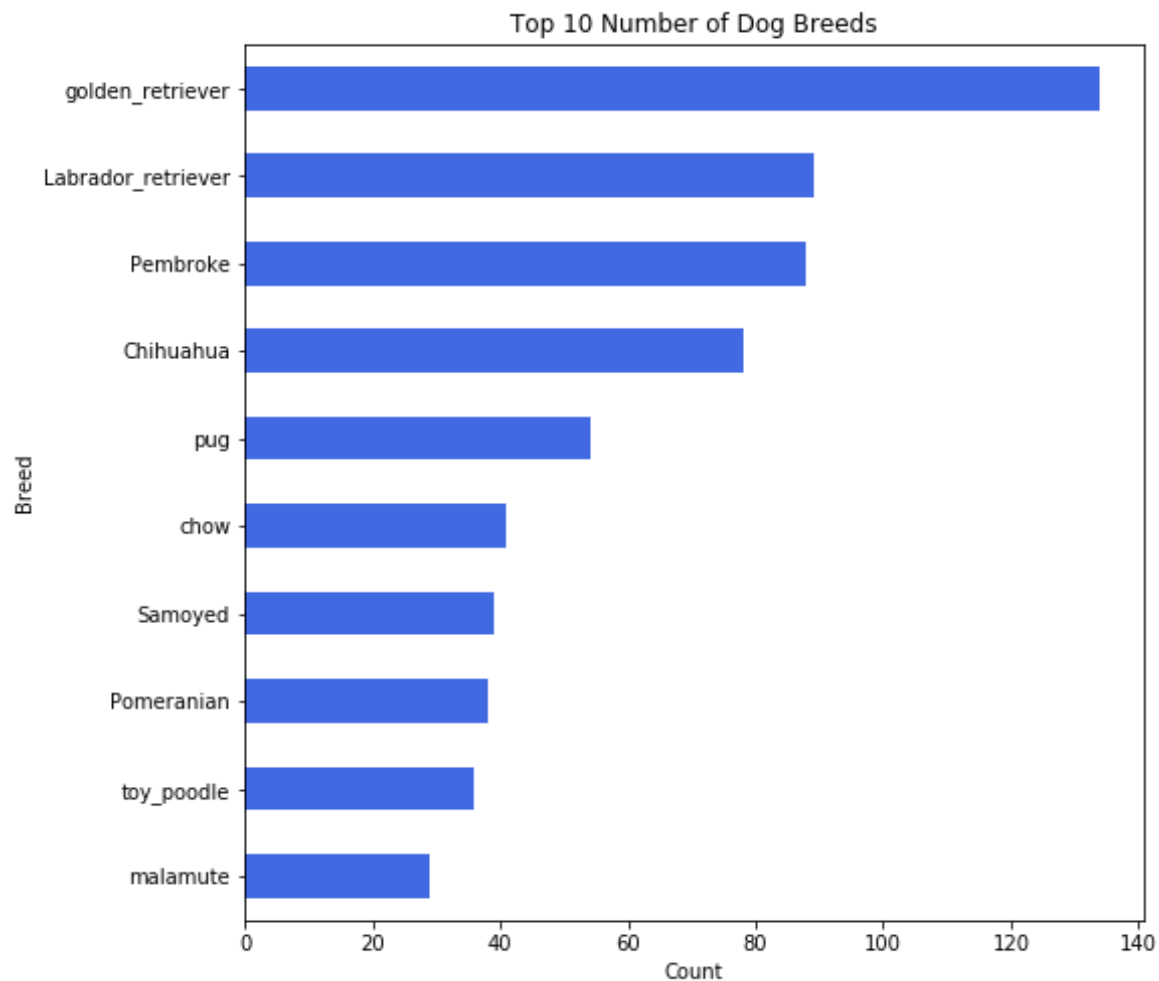

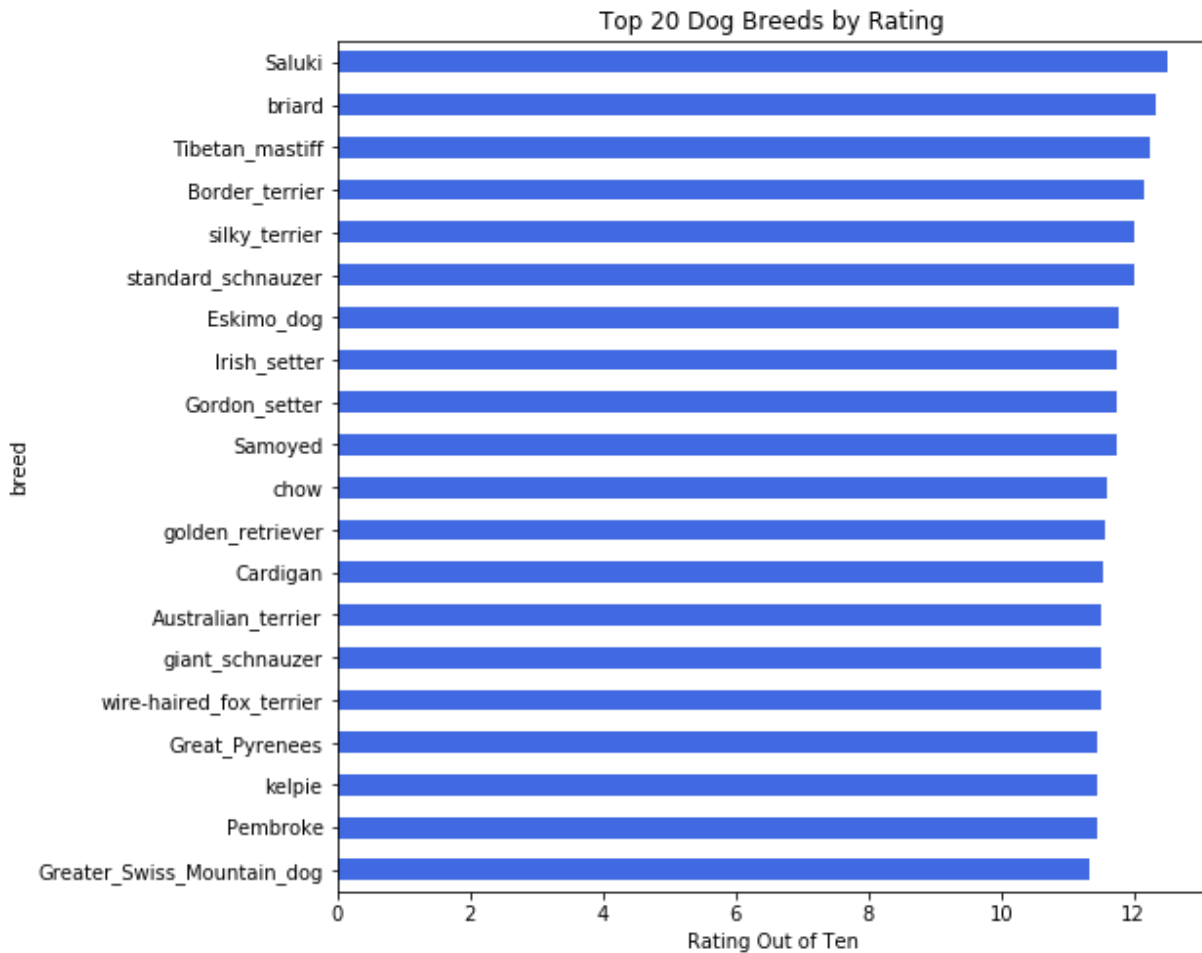

Introduction

In this Analysis we want to take dog breeds from posts on the WeRateDogs twitter handle and compare them with their ratings, number of retweets and number of favorites in order to see which dog breeds are the most popular.
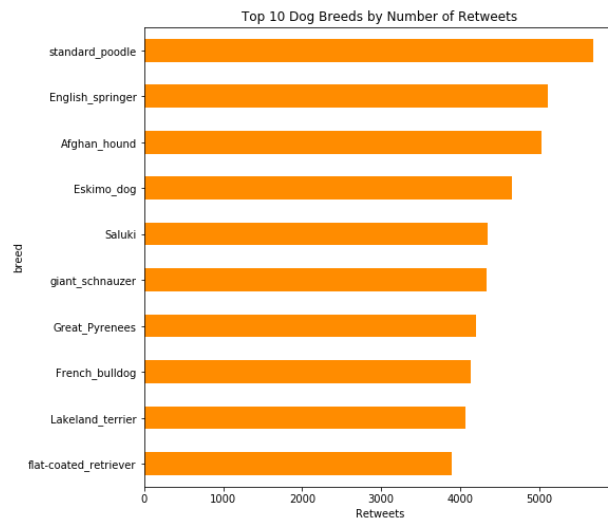

Findings

After gathering, assessing, and cleaning all our data, we were able to gain some insights from this data. We found that the most common dog breed to be posted on WeRateDogs was the Golden Retriever with a count of 134. That makes sense because they are very popular friendly family dogs and they are also used often as mental health therapy dogs.

Even though the Saluki breed had the highest overall ratings with a mean of 12.5, it seems that that the author of WeRateDogs seems to rate all the dogs between 12 and 14 over 10 no matter what the breed is. This is most likely part of what makes the twitter handle so popular because many dog lovers love all dogs.

Top 20 Dog Breeds by Rating

The Breed with the highest number of retweets was the standard poodle with a mean of 5681.86 retweets. This also makes sense because poodles are not only very popular dog breeds, but they also take funny pictures.

Lastly, we looked at breeds with the most number of favorites. Saluki again came in first place with a mean of 21,611.25 favorites. It seems that may be a very popular dog on this twitter handle considering they came out on top in two different categories.
